

FAP Seminars

Information Security

Protecting your most valuable asset

“Data becomes information when it has value...The ambition should be never to lose or allow undesired access to information.”

[The Poynter Review Final Report, 25 June 2008]

Date

Wednesday 01 July 2009

The reputational damage caused by information loss or misuse can be significant. Recent examples have highlighted the lack of basic security processes and procedures and failures by management to implement independent scrutiny.

Venue

Chartered Accountants' Hall
One Moorgate Place
London EC2R 6EA

This Fraud Advisory Panel seminar will outline some of the key issues that should be addressed by organisations in managing information security. This will include:

Event timings

08.30 Registration

09.00 Seminar

10.45 Refreshments

11.15 Seminar

13.00 Close & light lunch

- Information security in the 21st century – an overview of current trends and threats in the UK
- Legal requirements and the role of the Information Commissioner's Office
- Managing breaches – what to do when it all goes wrong
- Protecting your most valuable asset – practical technical, physical and organisational measures

Costs

£80 + 15% VAT

FAP / ICAEW IT Faculty members

£130 + 15% VAT

Non members

Confirmed speakers are:

- Nathan Jackson, NCC Group
- Rosemary Jay, Pinsent Masons
- Phil Jones, Information Commissioner's Office
- James Wood, NHS

Bookings

020 7920 8637

www.fraudadvisorypanel.org

The seminar will be chaired by Ben Summers, chairman of the Fraud Advisory Panel's Data Protection Subcommittee, and a barrister at Three Raymond Buildings.

This seminar is aimed at professionals with responsibility for managing personal information and data in areas such as finance, IT, human resources and customer / member services.